Does HDF get any financial support from Pakistan Government?

HDF does not receive any funds from the Government of Pakistan nor does it remit any of the funds it raises to any government or government entity. HDF collects majority of its funds from generous donors like you.

Who are HDF, HDFNA, NCHD, PHDF, and HDF Pakistan?

HDF or HDFNA – The Human Development Foundation (HDF), incorporated in USA in 1997, is a non-government organization (NGO) that provides program services in Pakistan and in the U.S.

NCHD – The National Commission On Human Development (NCHD) is an entity formed by the Government of Pakistan as a result of long term persuasion efforts by members of HDF and APPNA.

PHDF – The Pakistan Human Development Fund (PHDF), incorporated in Pakistan in 2002, is responsible for channeling resources from the Government of Pakistan, the private sector and the international donor community into the NCHD and its programs. Although the PHDF is integral to the NCHD's Global Resource Mobilization program, it is an autonomous organization and a separate legal entity. PHDF has no relationship with HDF/HDFNA.

HDF Pakistan - HDF Pakistan (HDF-Pak) is a sister organization of HDF in Pakistan. It is a not-for-profit organization incorporated in Pakistan on April 25, 2001. HDF Pakistan is governed by an all-volunteer Board of Directors.

What is the difference between HDF and NCHD?

HDF is an independent, non-governmental organization (NGO) registered in the U.S. as a not-for-profit 501(c)3 tax exempt corporation. HDF-Pak programs are funded by generous individual donors along with institutional support from non-governmental institutions.

The National Commission on Human Development in Pakistan (NCHD) is a government entity whose funding is provided primarily by the government of Pakistan but also from some individual donors and International institutions.

HDF is not connected with nor does it receive or remit any funding from or to NCHD.
